FRANK HOWARD
IN 15th YEAR
WITH CLEMSON

Succeeded Jess Neely After Nine Years as Tigers' Line Coach

CLEMSON, S.C.

---Humorous Frank Howard is now in his sixth year as ringmaster of Clemson's football Tigers, but the heavy-set Alabamian has become a Clemson landmark through fifteen years of continuous service. He came here as line coach at the beginning of the 1931 season.

Howard inherited Clemson's football reins when Coach Jess Neely moved to Rice Institute following his Clemson Cotton Bowl season of 1939.

Frank Howard probably has the distinction of being the nation's only head coach who seconded his own nomination for the post. Following Neely's resignation, the Clemson Athletic Council was in session to select a successor. Howard was invited in to answer a few "policy" questions. That done, a council member motioned: "I move that Frank Howard be appointed head coach."

"I second the motion," Howard said, without batting an eye. Whereupon he was awarded a five year contract.

There, characteristically, you have the fun-packed Howard: the Howard who yells at practice loafers: "Boys, if you want to kill time, let's work him to death" and who varies it with "Somebody pour water on Smith so he can grow faster on that fertile land"; the Howard who sent Frank Howard, Jr., a plug of Pop's favorite tobacco before the youngster was three days old.

Born at Barlow Bend, Alabama, on March 25, 1909, Howard spent his early years on a farm, specializing in cow-pasture baseball. He worked his way up the football ladder the hard way and learned his trade thoroughly enroute. As a Mobile high schooler, he was up before dawn each morning to put in four hours in a bakery before hiking to school for a day with his books and whatever sport was in season.

Coach Wallace Wade once said Howard was too small for football; Howard said: "I'll show 'em.", wound up as the "little giant" of Alabama's 1930 Rose Bowl "Red Elephants." Howard was a first string 185-pound guard in those days, a 235-pounder these days.

Coach Howard's favorite leisure time recreations are playing Chinese Checkers and growing big red tomatoes.

So positive is Howard that Junior will be a footballer that when former Clemson stars, as proud papas, assure him that they will have a good football player at Clemson before many years, Howard answers: "I hope so, but I'm not banking too much on you. I have one of my own coming along."

ASSISTANT COACHES

WALTER COX Coach Walter T. Cox, Jr. (Clemson '40) played a reserve guard for the Tigers for two years and in 1939 moved into a regular guard spot on the Clemson team that won nine games and lost one, and defeated Boston College (6-3) in the 1940 Cotton Bowl game. Cox joined the Clemson coaching staff immediately after graduation. Having received his reserve commission, he was called into the service in 1942 and served overseas in the Fijian Islands, New Caledonia, and Guadalcanal. He was medically discharged from the Army in 1943 and returned to coaching duties last year.

A. W. (ROCK) NORMAN Coach "Rock" Norman is considered one of the greatest and most versatile athletes in the history of Roanoke College. Upon graduation in 1915, he enlisted in the U.S. Army, and was with the AEF in France. He returned to Roanoke as coach of all major sports. Since then he has coached at Bailey Military Academy, Furman University, University of South Carolina, and the Citadel. He came to Clemson as freshman football and varsity basketball and track coach in February 1940.

CLEMSON COACHES ON MILITARY LEAVE

Clemson coaches who are now with the armed service are:

Lt. Colonel Robert M. (Bob) Jones -- end coach
Major Banks McFadden -- assistant backfield coach
Major Randy Hinson -- assistant backfield coach
Captain Covington (Goat) McMillain -- backfield coach
Lt. (JG) Tom Rogers -- end coach

CLEMSON FOOTBALL IN RECENT YEARS

Clemson football rightfully suffered heavily during the war years. Clemson students, members of a first-rate ROTC unit, were soon called into the armed services and since Clemson was an "Army" college in the War Department's Educational Program, the Tigers were strictly "civilian" footballers.

In spite of those conditions, the Tigers went right ahead with the best football they could. The 1941 team, which was, of course, pre-war, won seven games and lost two. The 1942 record dropped to 3 wins against 6 losses and a tie; in 1943 it was 2 wins against 6 losses; and in 1944 things picked up to the tune of 4 wins and 5 losses.

On Clemson's roster this year are six players who won their letters here a year ago, one who was a 1941 letterman, and several boys who have medical discharges from the army but who have had practically no football experience. In the main the squad consists of freshmen (the great majority under 18 years of age) who are taking their first shot at collegiate football.

ALL FOR NOTHING

CLEMSON, S.C.---Jack Banks, 195 pound Clemson freshman tackle, says his greatest football thrill was blocking three men on a single play which figured in a 60 yard touchdown. "But", he adds, "the play was called back because one of our boys clipped."

TIGER MUDDERS

CLEMSON, S.C.---Just before the 1903 Clemson-Georgia Tech game, Clemson's Coach John Heisman cried: "We expect to win, but the muddy field will hold our scoring down." Score: Clemson 73; Tech 0.

ACTION APLENTY

CLEMSON, S.C.---Clemson and Tulane, scheduled to meet in New Orleans November 17th, always give the fans a show. Past scores in the series, Clemson's score given first, are: 0-7; 13-10; 6-7; 0-13; and 20-36.

"S---NOT E"

CLEMSON, S.C.---Eddis Freeman, Clemson letterman end, rarely sees his name spelled correctly in the papers. It invariably reaches publication as Eddie, instead of the correct Eddis.
